

Appendix 67 to
THE HISTORY OF CHEHAW COUNCIL
Photos and Maps of Camp Shehaw (aka Camp Little Chehaw)

The part in Yellow is believed to be the 2 acres given for Scout use.
The Green part is the remainder of the parcel.

BIG CHIEFS—Shown above are the six "chiefs" and "medicine man" who participated in the Indian theme Boy Scout court of honor of Troop No. 21 last night at Camp Shehaw. All of the group have been Eagle Scouts for at least six months and thus were entitled to wear the bonnets of chiefs. They are, left to right, Bill Morton, Gatewood Dudley, Harrold Summerford, Bob Holliday (a former member of the troop), John Argo and Don Card. Below several members of the troop are shown doing a tribal dance around the council fire. (Photos By Charlie Meyer)

PLAYWRIGHT

RALPH WILLIAMS

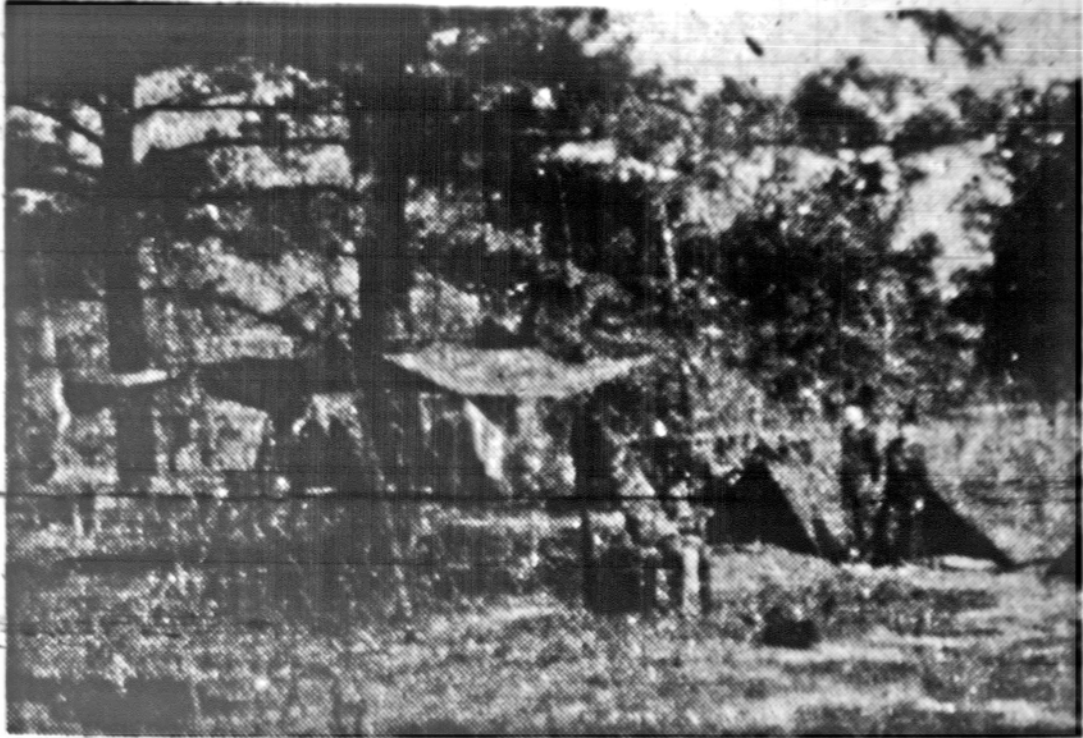

Ralph Williams, Columbus student at the Georgia Southwestern college, is author of the play, "The Scout at Camp," which will be presented at the Recreation building tonight at 7:30 o'clock. Mr. Williams, who has served as a leader at the local camp, based the play on life at Camp Shehaw.

Ralph Williams was Camp Director at Camp Shehaw in 1938.

SCOUTS ON SPRING CAMPS

The above two photos are typical scenes showing camp life at Spring camps conducted by Boy Scout Troop 21 of Americus at nearby Camp Shehaw. The troop patrols composed of the Cayote, Panther, Flying Eagle and Indian, learn to set-up their camps, cook as well as do all the other things necessary in becoming good outdoorsmen. The scout-master of the troop is Charlie Hogg.

Currently the earliest known photos of Camp Shehaw.
